Laminar OT's

Freezo Tech Systems is proud to introduce the Laminar OTS, the latest innovation in cleanroom technology. Our Laminar OTS is designed to provide maximum protection against contaminants, ensuring a safe and sterile environment for delicate processes.

What is Laminar OTS?

Laminar OTS is a laminar airflow system that provides a uniform flow of HEPA-filtered air. It works by drawing in air from the surrounding environment and filtering it through a series of high-efficiency filters. The filtered air is then directed into the cleanroom, creating a controlled and contaminant-free environment.

All Type's Of Scientific Doors

Freezo Tech Systems is proud to offer a comprehensive range of scientific doors to meet the unique needs of different scientific applications. Our scientific doors are designed to provide maximum protection and secure access to the laboratory, cleanroom, and other controlled environments.

Lab Doors: Our lab doors are ideal for use in laboratory environments where a high level of control is required. These doors feature a solid core construction and are made from materials that are resistant to chemical corrosion and easy to clean.

Cleanroom Doors: Our cleanroom doors are designed to meet the strict requirements of cleanroom environments. These doors feature an airtight seal and are made from materials that prevent the transfer of particles between different cleanroom zones.

Controlled Access Doors: Our controlled access doors are designed to provide secure access to restricted areas. These doors feature biometric locks, keycard access, or other security features to ensure that only authorized personnel can enter the area.

Blast-Resistant Doors: Our blast-resistant doors are designed to withstand the effects of an explosion. These doors are constructed from materials that can withstand high pressure and impact and are ideal for use in chemical and pharmaceutical facilities, as well as other hazardous environments.

Radiation Shielding Doors: Our radiation shielding doors are designed to protect against the harmful effects of ionizing radiation. These doors are made from materials that absorb and block radiation and are ideal for use in nuclear and medical facilities.

Each of our scientific doors is custom-designed to meet the specific needs of the customer and is available in a range of sizes and materials to suit the requirements of any application. Contact Freezo Tech Systems today to learn more about our range of scientific doors and to find the perfect solution for your application.
